I know a place.

It is a place made just for you
to play and learn and think and dream.

People called teachers care for you there.

Teachers help your ideas grow to help your dreams come true.

You wear a uniform at this place
to show that you are special.

You might go there with a friend and you can make friends there.

In the classroom you can sit at a desk
and draw, paint, count, do puzzles and sing,

or you can sit on the floor and listen to your teacher read a story.

There is another special room full of books called a library.

You can even take books home to read with your family.

You eat healthy food that you find in your lunch box at recess and lunch.

Bubblers spout water for everyone to drink.

Then you play with your friends in the playground,
run around and shout.

At the end of the day someone you love comes to take you home.

Do you know the place I am thinking of?

It's your school!

*“Do you know the special place
I am thinking of?”*
